With the deal to end the longest government shutdown in U.S. history nearing its final vote, President Trump declared victory today, but the agreement has already sparked fierce infighting among his Democratic opponents.

Federal Reserve Governor Michael Barr stated that while artificial intelligence (AI) will transform the economy, many outcomes are possible. A survey by the New York Fed shows that AI has already led employers to reduce hiring plans. This could slow job growth, but he did not comment on the near-term outlook for monetary policy.

Luckin Coffee, the Chinese coffee chain delisted from Nasdaq in 2020 due to a financial fraud scandal, has seen a significant turnaround since being acquired by Centurium Capital, surpassing Starbucks to become China's largest coffee retailer and is now preparing for a relisting in the U.S.

The UK Department for Transport is collaborating with the National Cyber Security Centre to investigate whether approximately 700 electric buses manufactured by Chinese company Yutong Bus can be remotely controlled or shut down. The investigation stemmed from earlier tests in Norway that revealed Yutong could access the bus's battery and power management system via mobile networks, theoretically potentially rendering the bus inoperable.

Norwegian public transport operator Ruter released test results showing that Yutong could remotely access the vehicle's control system, prompting Denmark to immediately begin inspecting similar buses within its borders. Yutong buses also operate in Australia, where similar information security reviews have been conducted.

Financial Astrology

(1) Win the Trend

AI is a very powerful tool for stock analysis, but not a fortune teller. Sometimes I asked them to give a forecast on a certain stock for the next 5 or 10 years, they would just expect it has an annual growth of how many per cent and some years may be faster and some may be slower. Or they just group up all the famous analysis, giving the highest, lowest and the average price. It's no wrong, and we cannot complain. What they lack of? What investors want to know more? Very simple, where is the top and when will it adjust? When will the golden pit re-appear? Where is the bottom? If they can do this, no need to ask them to give the highest or lowest forecast, no need to give the average.

One thing of great regret, when they search all the website of analysis, they could not now there is still a method called Financial Astrology. Never mind, even in official medical science, they would not include Chinese medical herbal doctor, acupuncture, Tai Chi or breathing exercise. At most some would consider these as sidelines only and not normal or official way of treatment.

Long term reader of The Express should know that I have already pointed out numerous times that the Orion Meteoroid Shower of October 2022 is the bottom of the market early that year. This year I pointed out the buying period is from March to August, and I purchased at the bottom of April 7th which is the very bottom of the drop. A lot of advertisement in the internet is that they can use AI to catch the rise of every day and so you can earn 20% every day. Why Warren Buffet is known as God of Stocks, his average earning is 3000% to 4000% and not 20%.

A lot of small investors or retail investors have only limited capital but want to buy a lot of stocks. Mr A told him to buy this; Mr B told him to buy that. Whom should he follow? Not only this, their hopes are great and far, even an earning of 100% or 200% is no use. Don't talk about 20% any more. When they want to run a new business, or study EMBA in IVY league of US, or fulfil whatsoever dreamy story of childhood, at least he should learn from Warren Buffet of earning 3000% to 4000%, or else will be forever day dreaming.

When you know how vast our Milky Way is and how small is our sun in Milky Way, and how small is the earth in comparison with the sun..... Further on, in the night sky, every dot is a Sun or the Sun of the Sun, when further onward, every dot in the universe is a Milky Way..... and further on.....The clock, day and night only exist on earth and no other places of the universe. Therefore, no need to use Financial Astrology to catch the daily ups and downs of the market, it's something like dust in the wind.

Make up your mind to win the trend and have a profit of 3000% to 4000% on average. Fix a strategy to win the trend on your own, no need to follow my way if you can earn more. I have a unique way when I wrote The Bullion Express for several decades, only about 5 people followed completely and earned completely. Others followed a little and gave up and said no use. The problem is in the user and not the strategy. There will be a lot of dust blowing up and down if you use your monthly buying method, don't mind that dust. Or else you can lock up stocks bought from March to Aug and start a new page in Sep.
