Iran has been laying traps and moving additional military personnel and air defenses to Kharg Island in recent weeks in preparation for a possible US operation to take control of the island, according to multiple people familiar with US intelligence reporting on the issue.

White House press secretary Karoline Leavitt warned, if “Iran fails to accept the reality of the current moment,” Trump “is prepared to unleash hell.”

Trump has privately confided to advisors that he believes the war is nearing its end and has instructed his team to adhere to his publicly stated 4-6 week timeline. Sources indicate the White House plans a summit with Chinese President Xi Jinping in Beijing in mid-May, expecting the conflict to conclude before the meeting.

A Los Angeles Superior Court jury recently ruled that the design of the Meta and YouTube platforms was addictive, causing mental health damage to a 20-year-old woman. The two companies must jointly pay $6 million in compensatory damages.

The G7 foreign ministers' summit, held in Paris on Thursday, saw European leaders warn of the severe impact of the war with Iran on the global economy. The meeting prioritized the conflict between Iran and Ukraine, and US Secretary of State Rubio is expected to arrive on Friday.

Market Observation

What to do besides waiting?

As for the talk with Iran, once Donald Trump said it was “productive”, but Iran denied that they had any talks. So, who is lying? Actually, both sides are correct. As the writer said they used a middleman to exchange their standpoints and now going on to have a live talk, maybe in Pakistan. When the secret talk is carrying on, they may not like to let others know. Such as in the tariff talk last year, some countries said they had no talks with the US, but later found they went to the Treasury Building in Washington early at 7:00am in the morning to arrange formal talks.

Actually, for the time being, both sides are fighting for their face. That is, they want to show that they would not care about the other side. Just see who will collapse first. The same is in the tariff talk of last year. Now, both sides have the ability to proclaim victory, even though it is pyrrhic victory. The US is still trying to use his strong military power to overwhelm everything, but as I have said, when the war cannot be over within 3 weeks, they will be considered as defeated by the market. How about Israel? Their intelligence and decapitation is surprisingly accurate, now the US is pressing them down not to decapitate the speaker of Congress which is the major negotiator, so as the president, they need him to control the country of Iran. However, Iran is in a unique geographical location, they are holding the entrance of the Persian Gulf, and can even ask the Houthis to block the Red Sea also.

How about western countries, they of course want to keep all channels open but also want to stop the war. If it is just a military action of several days, the opposition would not be so great. Now what it affects is not just petroleum and all other foodstuff which will bring long term inflation. It will be a great hurt to world economy.

Both sides are still very strong in listing terms, just to show they are on the justice side and to maintain their own face. The greatest worry of the US is the midterm election, now it is in a very unfavourable condition. However, in Iran, not only will face another destroy in oil plants, but everyone is in fear will be decapitated, and those survivors are not happy at all, they would be treated as spy or else how can they keep on alive under such a case when every keyman is died.

What investors need to do is to mind the gradual changes in the market. Some of them are going back to the IT stocks and AI industry. ARM is rising suddenly. Do not think it has any concern with military power even if the ticker is ARM, it is an AI stock. It is a time of Treasure Hunting, especially when peace talk will begin in Pakistan. People know that it is hard to have success in a single evening, but anyway the end of the tunnel can be seen with a beam of light, even though still far away. Therefore, investors should prepare what to do after the war besides just pure waiting. When will it be over? No one knows, but for those that use a monthly instalment method to buy the Top 10, need not worry. That is to buy TSLA or NVDA on your income day every month, by the end of the year, your average buying price will be quite near the annual average of the stock. This will also not afraid of great collapse of the market for their recovery power is quite strong.

However, this can only apply to the Top 10 or else it will be too risky. But when looking to the rest of the year, two largest IPOs which are SpaceX and Open AI will bring great heat to the market.
