Harvard Management Company disclosed in a regulatory filing on Friday, August 14, that it holds $2.2 billion worth of SpaceX stock, making it the largest holding in Harvard's $4.3 billion U.S. stock portfolio, surpassing all other single-stock holdings. The University of California's investment arm also filed a regulatory filing last week, disclosing approximately $1 billion in SpaceX stock. The University of North Carolina and Washington University in St. Louis also hold SpaceX stock.

Google officially opened its first flagship store, "Google Store Omokado," at the Tokyu Plaza Omokado commercial facility in Shibuya, Tokyo, at 2 PM on August 13. This is Google's first directly operated flagship store outside the United States and the 11th Google Store globally.

Apple Inc. (AAPL-US) is undertaking a major strategic shift, having trained a large-scale language model specifically for the Chinese market with the support of Alibaba (BABA-US). This represents a shift in Apple's AI strategy in the Chinese market from complete reliance on domestic third-party partners to developing its own proprietary technology.

OpenAI's ongoing personnel reshuffle has impacted company morale. The IPO, originally expected to be completed this year, has reportedly been postponed to next year, at which point the company's valuation may further challenge the $1 trillion mark.

According to the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC), leveraged funds' net short positions in the yen fell 6.5% to 59,526 contracts in the week ending August 11. Since the U.S. and Japanese authorities jointly supported the yen around the beginning of the month, these funds have reduced their net short positions by more than half. The yen fell about 1% this week, closing at 159.35 in New York on Friday, erasing a significant portion of the gains driven by official intervention.

Hormuz ---- Territory of the US

"After we finish defeating Iran, which is being very badly defeated, pretty soon I'll be declaring the Hormuz Strait a territory of the United States." Donald Trump said.

What should investors do? Don't worry! This is not the first time he talked of other places belonging to the US. The most famous one is that he said the whole country of Canada should become the 51st state of the US. Later one Greenland, and later on Venezuela. It is no news at all. Actually, territory can only be claimed on land, and the territorial sea is only 12 miles away from shore, but all public channels and waterways belong to the whole world and should be governed by the UN and not any single country. However, the UN cannot say anything and dare not say anything.

The statement of Trump is illogical, for he said Iran is being very badly defeated, so why should he wait to finish defeating Iran. It should have been done long ago. Anyway, the market has no response to his sayings, only blaming TACO, he is chicken out again, but no one dares to blame UN, dare not utter a word, and no action to maintain the peace and freedom of the waterway. Anyway, the price of petroleum is far under $100, when going near that they will have negotiation to bring it down.

So now is the time for treasure hunting. Those that missed the chance of buying PLTR, MSFT and TEM, need not be afraid, there are a lot of chances coming. Please put your eye upon the blue chips or the top 20 market capitalization. It will be more reliable and can face changes ahead. TSLA, TSM, AMZN, GOOG, META and SPCX……

The peculiarity of the US stock market is that when record high comes, it would not come alone. There will be a series of record highs coming one by one by the 3 major indexes. So don't worry, you still have a lot of chances to buy in. Just do your own research instead of copy trade. It is quite easy to find the stars of tomorrow now.
